BE&K Building Group Celebrates Early Completion of Tennessee's Regional Hospital of Jackson

The BE&K Building Group completed a major expansion/renovation project at the Regional Hospital of Jackson (Tennessee), two weeks early — and under budget! The $8.6 million project for key client Community Health Systems included a 23,000-square-foot addition comprised of seven labor and delivery rooms (LDRs) and 24 same-day surgery beds. In addition, the women's imaging area was renovated and several utility upgrades were made.

On the day of final inspection by the Tennessee Department of Health, the BE&K Building Group's Nashville-based project manager, Andy Jodway, proudly commented, "It was my pleasure to be on site today during final inspection, which began at 4:30 a.m. with generator testing. The inspector tested every device in the building — every smoke detector, duct detector, nurse call device, electrical outlet, medical gas outlet, door holder, tamper switch, flow switch, etc. Not a single device failed nor were there any paperwork deficiencies. We passed with flying colors!" The BE&K Building Group's same team has begun preconstruction for another project on this campus — a 15-bed emergency department addition scheduled to break ground in early 2010.
