BE&K Building Group Celebrates Topping Out at Mount Pleasant Hospital Near Charleston, SC

Last month, the BE&K Building Group hosted a topping out ceremony at Roper St. Francis Healthcare's Mount Pleasant Hospital and Medical Office Building site in Mount Pleasant, South Carolina, near Charleston. A crowd of more than 400 people gathered at the 78-acre project site to celebrate the hospital's highest point of construction, including Roper St. Francis Healthcare representatives, dignitaries from surrounding towns, the Mount Pleasant town council and the BE&K Building Group team members.

The day's activities to celebrate the raising of the final beam began with brief speeches by Roper St. Francis Healthcare's John Sullivan, chief executive officer, and Peter DiNicola, vice president. The BE&K Building Group's Jim Paron, superintendent, and Tony Grohman, project manager, also made a few comments. The celebration continued with a catered luncheon during which tokens of appreciation were given to all 250 workers on site.

The BE&K Building Group is providing preconstruction and construction services for the new 215,000 square foot full-service hospital and 91,000 square foot, three-story medical office building, as well as an onsite central energy plant. The total construction value for this multi-faceted project is $93.8 million. Completion is scheduled for Summer 2010.
